MEDICAL.

EPITHELIOMA! OR SKIN CANCER.

For seven years I suffered with a cancer on my face. Eight months ago a friend recommended the use of Swift's Specific and I determined to make an effort to procure it. In this I was successful, and began its use. The influence of the medicine at first was to somewhat aggravate the sore; but soon the inflammation was allayed, and I began to improve after the first few bottles. My general health has greatly improved: I am stronger, and able to do any kind of work. The cancer on my face began to decrease and the ulcer to heal, until there is not a vestige of it left—only a little scar marks the place.

I have had a cancer on my face for some years, extending from one cheek hone across the nose to the other. It has given me a great deal of pain, at times hurning and itseling to such an extent that it was almost unbearable. I commenced using Swift Specific in May, 1883, and have used eight bottles. It has given the greatest relief by removing the inflammation and restoring my general health.

Not long ago, says the Boston Traveler's correspondent, the Treasury Department had occasion to send a commission to a newly-appointed Democrat in North Carolina. The envelope was addressed with a type writer — A few days afterwards Secretary Manning was intensely amused at the receipt of an indignant letter from his subordinate. In indiginant letter from his subordinate, in which he said that he wished him to know that he had a good education, and as he could read common writing it was unnecessary to address letters to him in printing. The type writer has evidently a great mission yet to perform.

A curious feature of the National Museum, says the correspondent of the Memphis Andauche, is its zoological section, or the department devoted to birds' eggs. It has about 42,000 birds' eggs packed away in little trays placed in cases along the walls of the building. Each tray is provided with strips of Each tray is provided with strips of cotton batting, so arranged that each egg has its own little apartment with soft walls of cotton. One who loves beautiful color would find a world of pleasure in looking through these trays. Many of the eggs are beautifully marked or spotted, others are uniform in color, but of exquisite shades, unrivaled by art. Delicate blue and pink prevail. It is really not a collection of eygs, but of shells. The a collection of eggs, but of shells. The collector in the field, before sending the trophies of his prowess to the Museum, prepares the eggs by blowing them. In the collection is a trayful of eggs of In the collection is a trayful of eggs of the golden eagle, which are rated in the egg collector's catalogue as worth five dollars apiece. The eggs get their value from the difficulty of capturing the nests of the eagle. The eggs in the collection vary in size from that of the tiniest humming bird to that of the gight high whom considers of the giant bird whose remains are found in Madagascar. There is a little egg of a tiny humming bird lying in a diminuitye nest. The humming bird that made the nest and laid the egg is the smallest bird in the world. The Gentlemen's Driving and Walking little egg has a length or long diameter of the smallest bird in the world. The little egg has a length or long diameter of three tenths of an inch and a short diameter of three-hundredths of an inch. The nest was one-twentieth of an inch across one way and 92-one-hundredths the other.

Says "Carp" of the Cleveland Leader: I called upon William W. Dorsheimer at the Arlington Hotel. What an immense man he is, and what a contrast to Mahone, of whom I have just been writing. Mahone weighs ninety-two pounds. Dorsheimer will pull the scales at three hundred. Mahone's leg is hardly as large around as Dorsheimer's arm, and Dorsheimer's thigh is of the diameter of Mahone's waist. Mahone's head would be lost inside of Dorsheimer's skull, and one of Dorsheimer's great coats would make a bedquilt large enough to wrap Mahone from public view. Still both of these men are great in their way. Both Dorsheimer and Mahone are the sons of hotel keepers, but Mahone's father was an rishman and Dorsheimer's a German. Philip Dorsheimer kept the Mansion House at Buffalo, and he kept it so well that his little boy Billy grew to be six feet four inches high, and has more flesh to the square inch than any other polito the square inch than any other poli-tician in the country. Mr. Dorsheimer is especially prominent just now as be-ing the editor of the New York Star, which is the organ of Grover Cleve-land's Administration in New York. When he comes here, which he does occasionally, he has long talks with President Cleveland at the White House, and not long ago he published an interview with Cleveland on the New York election. Dorsheimer is a Democrat, with Mugwumpian tenden-Democrat, with Mugwumpian tenden-cles. He is a fine looking giant, with dark hair and eyes, and he is one of the most courtly and accomplished men in public life. He is a cultured man and is a graduate of Harvard College. He is a lawyer of note, and began his practice in Buffalo. It was there be and Cleveland became acquainted with each other and began the friendship which is now so strong.

The correspondent of the Minucapo lis Tribene met an Indiana politician who has been here a number of months ceking an appointment, and inquired: When do you think you will get your appointment?" "Oh, I can't tell," he replied. "The situation is just as unfathomable to me now as it was when I came here, more than six months ago. You see, the trouble is the Indiana delegation, like those in many other States, is entirely too enthusiastic in my support. When I go to one of the delegation and ask him to push my case, he exclaims with the greatest ex-hilaration that they are all for me, and of course I will get the place, because there is so much due me from the party. Really I do think that there is a surplus of enthusiasmin my support and if it was reduced so that it rests, upon one man, I would fare much bet ter. They are all for me so energetically that no one considers it his duty to look out for me. My situation is that of twenty other of the boys I have seen here during my stay."

In the National Cemetery at Arlingon stands a circular temple of stone, nscribed with the names of Americans who were eminent as partakers in one r the other of the great revolutions On the piliars are engraven "Meade," "Hooker," etc. The circle which surmounts these pillars and supports the dome is divided into six spaces, four of which are now occupied with the names of Washington, Lincoln, Farrathrough their counsel, Mesers is it. The vacant places are reserved for Sherman and Sheridan when they die. Colonel Batchelder being inquired of by the correspondent of the Boston Post where the name of General McClellan was to go, replied: "Nowhere." "Why not?" was asked. "Because the space is all taken. Such is not the case. Mr. Pulitzer resided in St. Louis up to the time of his going to New York, and never got further than Jefferson City in his pursuit of legislative renown. But Bragg of Wisconsin, Wheeler of Alabama and Burrows of Michigan, who are to be at the Capitol this winter, have all been there and are the purest and oldest whiskies. Analysis also shows it to be free from adulteration or foreign impurity, there being no added coloring matter, such as burned sugar (earamel), log wood, catechen, tea infusion, &c.,—very frequently added—and the entire absence of a smoky odor shows that creesote has not been added, as in the case of most all Scotch and Irish whiscase of most all Scotch and Irish whis-kies. The purity of Duffy's Malt Whiskey (as simple analytical tests will readily convince a physician or an expert), should certainly recommend the same to public favor.
